DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 10/25/2005 has been entered.

Claims 1-3 and 19 are presented for examination.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1-3 and 19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. The phrase "administering to a patient an effective amount" renders the claim indefinite because the claim includes elements not actually disclosed which could mean the administration of the compound is to any patient and is in an amount effective for any treatment, thereby rendering the scope of the claim unascertainable. See MPEP § 2173.05(d). The "increasing insulin sensitivity in a mammalian patient in need thereof" in the preamble of claim 1 may be implied as being what is meant for "effective" but this is implied at best. An implied limitation is not clear and concise as required under 112, second paragraph.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-3 and 19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Lipton (US Patent 5,234,956, issue date: Aug. 10, 1993).

Claims 1-3 and 19 recite a method of administering to a patient an effective amount of a nitric oxide donor compound selected from a group consisting of 3-morpholinosydnonimine, sodium nitrite, nitroprusside and S-nitroso-N-D, L-penicillamine. Claim 2 limits that the administering is orally. Claim 3 limits that the administering is injecting.

Lipton teaches a method for reducing NMDA receptor-mediated neuronal damage in a mammal by administering to the mammal a nitric-oxide generating compound such as nitroprusside (see abstract), in a concentration effective to cause such reduction. Lipton further discloses that the compound is administered orally or intravenously (column 6, lines 13-14).

Therefore, the prior art method meets all the limitations in claims 1-3 and 19 of the instant application. The compound and method steps of the prior art are identical to those of the instant application. There is no difference between the patient populations in the prior art method and the instant application method. Thus, the method of the instant application as claimed is anticipated.

The “increasing insulin sensitivity in a mammalian patient in need thereof” in the preambles of the claims of the instant application is merely a new intended use of the method.

“[T]he discovery of a previously unappreciated property of a prior art composition, or of a scientific explanation for the prior art’s functioning, does not render the old composition patentably new to the discoverer.” Atlas Powder Co. v. Ireco Inc., 190 F.3d 1342,1347, 51 USPQ2d 1943, 1947 (Fed. Cir. 1999). Thus the claiming of a new use, new function or unknown property which is inherently present in the prior art does not necessarily make the claim patentable.

It is noted that In re Best (195 USPQ 430) and In re Fitzgerald (205 USPQ 594) discuss the support of rejections wherein the prior art discloses subject matter which there is reason to believe inherently includes functions that are newly cited or is identical to a product instantly claimed. In such a situation the burden is shifted to the applicants to “prove that subject matter shown to be in the prior art does not possess characteristic relied on” (205 USPQ 594, second column, first full paragraph).

Therefore, claims 1-3 and 19 are clearly anticipated.
